WELCOME TO ARTEVELDE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

Dear participant of the 17th meeting of ENOTHE,

Dear colleague,

Artevelde University College Ghent and the colleagues of the Occupational Therapy department are very proud to welcome you to the 17th Enothe conference.

Welcome to Ghent, often described as Belgium and Flanders' genuine diamond. Its preserved medieval beauty exists in harmony with a city firmly planted in the 21st century. Thanks to its 65,000 students, its unique combination of first-class education and many leisure activities, Ghent represents the beating heart of Belgium's student community. Take the opportunity to explore this hub of knowledge, culture and entertainment, to admire the city's splendid architecture and cultural riches.

You can find our newly built campus with welcoming state of the art conference facilities in the centre of town. Our Occupational Therapy department, consists of a team of over 40 staff members and more than 500 Occupational Therapy-students with the common goal to strive for excellence in their field.

The innovative curriculum is structured around the professional roles of the Occupational Therapist, taking the rapidly changing health paradigm thoroughly into consideration. Consequently, employment opportunities for Occupational therapists are continuously expanding.

In the next three days we will be exploring the central theme of 'Occupational Therapy and the Added Value of Voluntary Work', in line with the European Year of Volunteering in 2011. Volunteers embody the solidarity and human capital needed in a caring society. This theme will be discussed at length in 7 exceptional keynote speeches, 15 workshops, 30 presentations, numerous poster sessions and conference stands.

Take the opportunity to reunite or make friends and meet other OTdriven colleagues like you. Welcome to Artevelde University College. Have a pleasant stay in Ghent!

2011: EUROPEAN YEAR OF VOLUNTEERING The main aims:

To make it easier for people to volunteer

- To improve the quality of volunteering
- And to help policy-makers understand better the work done by millions of volunteers across the EU
- And address the challenge they face.

"A celebration and a challenge"

The European Year of Volunteering is both a celebration and a challenge

It is to raise awareness and celebrate the vital role that volunteers play in our everyday lives.

It is a celebration of the commitment of millions of people in Europe who work in their communities during their free time without being paid (for example in schools, hospitals, and sports clubs, protecting the environment, providing social services and helping people in other countries). Their efforts and those of the many thousands of volunteering organisations make a huge difference to our lives in countless ways. The world would be much worse off without volunteers!

The European Year of Volunteering 2011 is also a challenge to the three-quarters of the European population who do not do any volunteering. We would like to say to them that they can also make a difference.

PROF DR CHRIS KUIPER (University of Rotterdam)

"Lessons for Occupational Therapists Emerging from a Prison School"

I was born in the Netherlands in Almelo on 22 July 1961. Between 1979 and 1982, I studied physics at the Technical University in Enschede. Although I loved the philosophical and research part of this study programme, I missed the human factor and before graduation I switched from scientific to professional education. I entered an occupational therapy bachelor course. After graduating in 1986, my occupational career started in mental health, at a day-care centre in Heerlen. I continued to work as an occupational therapist at a long-stay treatment department of a mental health organization in Deventer. Those were the days of discussions about psychiatry, work and society. Discussions that moulded my thoughts on rehabilitation.

I changed my field of attention and started to work at University Hospital Utrecht, in the occupational therapy department. The primary focus was on the treatment of people with rheumatoid arthritis and hand injuries. I got involved in scientific research as well: effectiveness of group education, coping with pain and stress and physical well-being for people with chronic rheumatoid arthritis and changes in sensibility patterns of patients with sympathetically maintained pain syndromes. I followed a course on management in health care institutions and became head of the department.

Seventeen years ago, I switched from health care to health care education. I founded a professional occupational therapy bachelors study programme at the University of Rotterdam. In 1998, I became director of the schools of allied health education in Rotterdam (physiotherapy, speech therapy and occupational therapy).

In 2001, the Dutch education system introduced a new position: 'Lector' (professor in the setting of a professional university). I have been involved in the development of this position from the start. In September 2002, I was appointed Lector Occupation and Health at the Centre of Excellence Occupation and Health. I am the co-editor and co-author of several books on (allied) health care: Ergotherapeut als adviseur (1999), Fysionair (1999), Paramedisch Handelen (2001), Parabel (2003), Evidence-based practice voor paramedici (2004/2008), Evidence-based practice voor verpleegkundigen (2004/2008) Arbeid en Gezondheid (2005/2011), Adviseren als ergotherapeut (2007), Betrokken bij Bewegen (2009), Praktijkgericht onderzoek in de praktijk (2010) Kleine Wondertjes (2011)<sup>1</sup>. I got involved in several research-projects including the Dutch Healthy and Active Aging-program and Self management for Youngsters.

Inspired by the hybrid character of occupation, especially as a medicine and as a pathogen and in preparation for my inaugural lecture – Occupation works?! –, I followed a course at the University for Humanistics: Meaning of occupation, a sociological perspective. I realized that my motto had slowly changed from I like to recognize order in the world, where others might recognize a more disorderly reality (borrowed from Kielhofner, 1992) towards: I like to recognize disorder in the world, where others might recognize a more orderly reality. This course has opened the path to a dissertation in 2007. (The Eventmaker) In 2005, I was honoured an award for the person who influenced the Higher Healthcare Education the most. The award included a money prize, which was invested in this research. In 2008, I was occupied as the scientifical director of the Dutch Association of Occupational Therapy, and was member of the advice committee of this association. I am the co-founder of the Dutch Journal of Occupational Therapy Research. In 2011 I became honorable member of the DAOT.

In 2011, I switched focus and my main job became Director Care and Education at Horizon institute for care and education for youngsters with severe behavioral problems.

In 2009, ELSITO was initiated by three European partners in Belgium, Greece and the Netherlands and received funding from Grundtvig. The project group was formed by volunteers with different backgrounds. Not only occupational therapists would participate, also (ex) service users, teachers, students and other healthcare workers were members. Therefore, an interesting and colorful team originated to work with. In two years time the members have cooperated intensively to work towards social inclusion. Outcomes of the project are published in a booklet and will be available for ENOTHE participants. #### SATURDAY 5TH NOVEMBER 2011

Hanneke Van Bruggen Lecture: "In praise of diversity"

Jennifer Creek (DipCOT, Freelance Occupational Therapist, North Yorkshire)

This talk, the first annual Hanneke van Bruggen lecture, explores the nature of diversity, its importance to occupational therapy and the challenges faced by the profession as it strives to embrace variety and difference.

The talk begins with a discussion of the concept of diversity, considering why it is essential to the survival of both ecosystems and individual species, including human beings. Occupational therapy's commitment to 'independence, autonomy and self-determination' (Duncan & Watson 2004, p. 304) is critically examined, looking at the attitude of the profession towards difference in clients, colleagues and others. This examination leads to the conclusion that occupational therapists value individuality but are not always able to embrace diversity fully in practice, education or research.

Suggestions are given of ways in which occupational therapists might enact their values more fully in practice and education, through respecting individual difference, accepting the risks this brings and avoiding becoming closed in 'circles of certainty' (Friere 1972, p. 18). Challenges to greater acceptance of diversity are identified, including environmental constraints and professional anxieties. Examples are used to illustrate the diversity of media, theories, approaches, epistemologies and pedagogies available to occupational therapists when working with divergent client groups.

The talk concludes that the values and skills of occupational therapists allow them to accept and foster diversity but the profession needs to be more confident about promoting its distinctive, individualised approach if it is to be fully effective.
